CHAPTER XVII.—Continued.

They were greeted affably. Wallace of the bulbous nose; and his first inquiry was of Ryenne. Briefly the Major told his wife what had happened, and added his fears. Wallace had been captured, and he had no set his heart upon that venture that it was a shame to proceed without him. He had won him at the beginning about that infernal rug, but he had, of course, been a dare-devil scoundrel. So long as the Major had the plan, he supposed that they could use the trick without Huddy's assistance; only it seemed hard for him not to do it.

"He told me that nothing would give him greater pleasure than to see his rug fall into the hands of a low-life scoundrel."

The Major was a little worried, but he did not add in Fortune's welfare or ill-fortune was little or no concern of his. The little spider had always openly despised him.

"They were a pair of pale and anxious, ap-peared in the companionway. She beckoned them to follow her down to her cabin. Had Fortune arrived? Had Ryenne?"

"She was not there. She had gone up to the deck to smoke a cigarette."

"I only just arrived," she said.

"I never thought of looking into it at Cairo. It was the last time I had it when I was there."

"What's the matter? What's the devil is it doing in Fortune's steamer-boat?"

"That is what I should like to know. If the Major had been here, he would have told me the rug, whatever will become of them?"

And Mrs. Chedeville touched the rug with her foot, absently.

"She was repeating in her mind that she should appear in Fortune's cabin.

WHY THE GREEN COUPON SYSTEM IS MOST POPULAR

The present seems an opportune time for again pointing out to traders and the public generally the advantages of the Co-operative Coupon system (that is the system of the GREEN COUPON COMPANY) over any individual system of giving discounts.

We start by stating that most traders are prepared to give a discount to cash customers. As everyone knows, it pays them in many ways to do so; for instance, they save losses by bad debts, they reduce their book-keeping expenses, and with the extra ready cash that comes to them they are able to go to the merchant and pay cash for what they buy, and so themselves secure the discounts which the merchant gives for cash. All these are real advantages to the trader, and he is prepared to pay for them, and that is why he gives the cash customer an advantage over the one who takes credit. Before the introduction of the GREEN COUPON COMPANY'S system traders generally gave this discount in cash (where the purchase was large enough to admit of a payment in cash), or by means of tickets issued by a cash register or by means of coupons, these cash-register tickets and coupons being afterwards redeemed by the trader for cash or goods. It will be seen, however, that it meant a lot of trouble for him to check all these tickets and coupons and to redeem them; and, besides, he found that the customer as a rule preferred to receive the discount in goods of different sorts to those purchased at his shop. This meant either that the trader would have to keep a different lot of goods for redemption purposes, or give the customer an order to get goods to the value of the coupons from another shop, leaving it to the trader to settle up later on with that other shop; and this also, as will be at once seen, meant a lot of trouble and book-keeping to the trader.

It is at this stage the GREEN COUPON COMPANY comes along and says to the trader, "If you want to give your cash customer a discount, why not appoint us your Agent to do it for you? We will charge you no more than the amount you are prepared to give your customer, and we will undertake to give your customer the discount in more satisfactory form than you can do so, and we will relieve you from all trouble in connection with it." Traders soon saw the common-sense of this proposition, and for years past large numbers of them have employed the GREEN COUPON COMPANY to do this business for them. They find that the amount they pay the Coupon Company is no more than they were prepared to give their customer direct, and that, as we have said, they are relieved from all details of giving the discount, and, best of all, the Company with the means at its disposal is in a position to cater for their customers' wishes, as to the way in which they want this discount better than they could do themselves.

Then there is another very important advantage in favour of the GREEN COUPON COMPANY as against individual coupon-giving, and this one appeals to the public more particularly. These GREEN COUPONS have now become very popular amongst traders, and housewives may get them at all the different shops where they buy their household requirements. This means that they can go to any shop in Sydney or Suburbs, where GREEN COUPONS are given, and get them on all their purchases, and stick them all into the same book; and their book fills very rapidly, and they are very soon in a position to take a full book to the Coupon Company's Showrooms, and select in exchange for it some necessary household article from the fine stock kept, whereas, in the other case, the housewife can trade only at the individual shop, which means that it will take her very much longer to fill her book, and the chances are that in many cases she will lose her coupons altogether, and so lose her discounts. Of course, one thing essential to the success of the Company's system is that it must keep faith with the trader by giving his customer goods of proper value, and the fact that the Company has been in existence now in Sydney for over thirteen years, and that its business is larger than ever, should be satisfactory on that point.

The system is, after all, simplicity itself. It issues coupons to the trader, the trader gives them to his customer, who pays cash at the rate of one for every sixteen spent; the customer sticks them in a book until it is full, and then, instead of going back to that trader with the book, and asking for money or goods for them, the customer takes them to the Company's Showrooms, and redeems them there. Some say, Why not give the discount in cash, and have done with it? The answer, of course, is, any shopkeeper will tell you, that the great majority of purchases amount to only a few pence, and there is no coin small enough to give the discount in cash; and, further, if it were given in cash it is to be feared that it would be wasted in many cases, while in the case of coupons they are kept in a book until they are numerous enough to be valuable.

Thirteen thousand two hundred and eighty-one ladies turned up at the Company's Showrooms in one month to redeem their coupons. That does not speak badly for the system.

RECENT METALLURGY.

Sir Robert Hadfield, who was recently granted a doctor's degree at the University, has written an interesting paper on alloys since 1878, when he saw some blast furnace ferro-manganese at the Paris Exhibition—incidentally the process reduced costs from £20 to £10 a ton. His own firm has been in the same year later with a manganese steel. Faraday, who anticipated the discovery, had no idea of the uses of the new metal. He who held the secret of the world's sales. The product, however, has to be interpreted with a difference, for China herself possessed the largest iron deposit found anywhere. Sheffield is a natural centre for the study of the alloy steels, but the value of research is still by no means perfectly understood in England. The Chinese, however, have been using iron for 2,000 years, and the secret of the iron is now known. The iron of the world's sales is illustrated by the old Chinese proverb that he who holds the secret of the world's sales. Hearne's Bronchitis Cure

It's the little things in Life that always cause the most trouble. It's easier to dodge an Elephant than a Microbe. It would be impossible to calculate how many Microbes could rest on an Elephant's whisker. Millions could sit on his eye-lashes without making him blink. So tiny are they, that only the Scientist with his powerful microscope can see them.

The atmosphere is swarming with these Microbes or Germs (call them what you will), and we are continually breathing them into our Lungs. Of course, if you are sound in Health, the White Corpuscles (Leucocytes) in your blood will deal with the invaders in their usual business-like manner. But, if you have a Cold on the Chest, it weakens the Tissue of the Lung, and then the White Corpuscles lose a certain amount of their fighting-power, and so the Germs get a lodging place. Then, unless Nature is assisted, those wretched Germs multiply with extraordinary rapidity and commence to consume the Lung.

DON'T TRIFLE WITH A COUGH. Germs just love Coughs. Get right on to Hearne's Bronchitis Cure. It chuckles out the Germs and heals the Lung. Of course, you may instead elect to take your chances—thousands have done so to their own undoing.

DON'T GAMBLE WITH DEATH. The worst case of Consumption that ever was, COMMENCED with—"JUST A COUGH." Surgery has accomplished many miracles, but no Surgeon has yet been able to replace a Rotten Lung with a new Healthy one.

DON'T LET THE GERM OF CONSUMPTION GET THE UPPER HAND. Consumption has never been known to develop where "Coughs" have been properly treated on their first appearance with DEFEATED.

THE LAURIER DOWNTOWN.
GENERAL ELECTION RESULTS
MINISTERS REJECTED.

OTTAWA, Sept. 21. The general election has resulted in the defeat of the Laurier Government. All the Ministers except Mr. W. Pugsley (Public Works), Sir W. Laurier (Premier), and Mr. F. Oliver (Interior) have been defeated. The "Irish Times" denounces the absence of Mr. A. Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and the Earl of Aberdeen, Lord-Lieutenant.

Sworn gains have been secured by the Conservatives.

British Columbian representation is now all Conservative.

Twelve Nationalists have been returned in Quebec.

Sept. 22. A number of deferred election results have yet to come in, but the latest returns show the result of the polling to be:

Conservatives 113

Independents 12

Liberal 88

The Liberals carried Alberta with the exception of the Calgary seat.

The Conservatives overwhelmed the Liberals in Ontario, the Liberals carrying only 12 seats.

British Columbia is now entirely held by the Conservatives.

In Manitoba the Liberals have held only one seat.

The Saskatchewan returns give seven Liberals and three Conservatives.

The representation of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick is comparatively uniform.

In Quebec the Liberals held 37 seats, but the Conservatives and Conservatives have gained 20.

A significant feature of the elections has been the defeat of Ministers, though lay promises were made in the various cities that great public works would be undertaken if the Ministers were victorious.

Mr. Wilfrid Laurier is unwilling to lead the Opposition in the new House, and his retirement has been practically decided.

UNITED STATES DISAPPOINTMENT.

Great disappointment has been expressed in the United States at the result of the Canadian elections.

From the date of confederation, in 1867, the Liberals were only in power once till 1873, when they held unbroken possession of the Treasury benches. At the general election of 1887, Laurier carried the Liberal Conservatives, 4, and 8 Independents, the latter being on the whole supporters of the Liberals. In 1891, he was again returned, and in 1896 was the return of the Liberals to power with an increased majority; and in 1904 Sir Wilfrid Laurier obtained a majority of 21. Again, at the last elections, in 1908, the Laurier Administration came back from the polls with a majority of 12.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who has already expressed his determination to retire rather than stand again for office, has now, in the opinion of the Canadian people, given up his chance of a third term.

At the general election of 1891, he was born in 1841, and in 1871 was elected to the Quebec Provincial Assembly. In 1874 he became a member of the House of Commons. His speech in the House of Commons was a brilliant oration, and he entered the Mackenzie Ministry in 1877. He was a member of the House of Commons until 1882, when he was defeated. He was, however, returned for the City of Quebec, which has remained faithful to him ever since. In 1887 he became Minister of Finance, and in 1891 he was again elected to the House of Commons. He was chosen leader of the party, and in 1896 he became Minister of Finance. In 1898, he was again elected to the House of Commons. He has been a prominent figure in official and public circles, and has always proved a true representative in the heart of the Empire.

STATE POLITICS.

"A POLITICAL TYRANT."

MR. WILLIS CONDEMNED.

Mr. Vernon Parkes, M.L.A., addressed a meeting of the electors of Dulwich Hill on Friday night. Alderman J. Ness presided.

Mr. Parkes said that if men sought a seat in Parliament for personal gain, and stuck to office in the face of the obvious public demand that they should resign, the politics could never be pure. In a crisis like the present it was the people that should decide what was right and what was wrong. The present Government would recognise their responsibility; they would immediately put an end to the present state of affairs, and go to the country and let the people settle the matter.

The fault of the present situation was the most despicable of the most miserable and corrupt system of government ever seen in this country. (Interruption.)

He said that in the last year, that Mr. Willis had accumulated upon his appointment. Rumour has it that he has undertaken his present duty on the compact that the Labour party will see that he shall be sent to the Upper House before the election comes on. It is said that the compact provides that he will be maintained in power, provided that what strikes are made upon him. The Government's intention is to protect him, and they are certainly protecting him very well. He is a traitor to the Labour party, and the Labour Government which desires to crush all legitimate and fair opposition. That is the compact, and I must say it is a very sorry sight.

Alderman T. Hoskins moved: "That this meeting expresses its emphatic disapproval and disgust at the action of Mr. Willis as a traitor to the Labour party, and the party by accepting the Speakership at the present juncture; further, this meeting is of opinion that, in order to end the present situation, the Lieutenant-Governor be asked to dissolve the House, and cause an appeal to the country, and thereby maintain responsible government."

The motion was carried by a large majority.

MR. HOLMAN DEFENDS MR. WILLIS.

"It is most to be hoped in the interest of Parliament that the full attack upon the Speaker will now cease," said the Attorney-General (Mr. Holman) yesterday. "I have refrained from entering into the details of the matter, because I've regarded the Speaker as more than equal to the task of defending himself." Mr. Holman's position was simple that when he was driven to defend himself he was immediately accused by his critics of taking up a position which he did not believe in, and was supported by any but the Opposition to the inaction that had been adopted of commanding the day's proceedings by the House's well-entitled and honourable speaker, and carry on a vendetta.

The offences committed were not accidental breaches of decorum. Mr. Holman had the authority which he had, perhaps, reluctantly given to the speaker, and with absolute fairness, and a surprising dignity and deliberation. On two or three occasions he had, perhaps, ruled in his favour, and in doing so, a ruling which might be open to doubt. It was a matter of surprise that the cases of such falling short of the ideal standard were not more numerous. Some members acted on the principle that whatever was done by the speaker should be disengaged from. That there was a motive, Mr. Holman said, to frustrate the passage of the Electoral Amending Bill.

COUNTRY NEWS.

PARKES WATER SUPPLY.

PARKES, Friday. An analysis of the water from Beargambil Creek made on behalf of the Works Department shows that the supply is suitable for domestic and industrial purposes. The water has been again turned on for all consumers within the reticulation area. The supply, though limited, is guaranteed to meet a water famine during the summer months.

LIGHTING OF MURWILLUMBAH.

MURWILLUMBAH, Friday. A special meeting of the municipal council to consider the lighting of the town was entered into by the council for lighting the town with coal gas, adopted the same after considerable discussion. There was also a proposal before the council to increase the 20 per cent. payment, representing a picoblock on the question as to whether gas or electricity was most desirable. This was granted, the poll to leave place on October 1.

ABERDEEN, Friday.

The Corporation, late, aid the local church of England building fund, organised and managed by the Women's Guild, yielded £100, making a total of £300 raised by the ladies of St. Mark's within two years towards the new church.

At last meeting of the municipal council, the last meeting of the year, the corporation were censured for criticising the department. It was decided to stand by the department, and requested, (1) that the present trust be dissolved, and (2) that the corporation be given a voice in the council. The letter was apparently ignored by the Works Department, no reply having so far been received, resulting in a resolution unanimously passed by the departmental reply to the council's letter of June 17 last.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

At White Cliffs, before Major Clegg, P.M., a boy, 16 years, was sent to the reformatory for 12 months for forgery. He was employed on Tiarrolo station, and securing blank cheques, filed out, forged the name of the master. These he sent to Anthony Horner, Sydney, ordering a quantity of saddle. The goods were despatched, but when the forged name was discovered their master was stopped at Cobhar.

EIGHT HOURS DAY.

QUEENSLAND PREMIER'S VIEWS.

BRISBANE, Friday. Replying to a deputation representing all the trades unions in the State, asking for a statutory eight hours day, Mr. T. J. Ryan, the Minister of Public Works, said that the Government had no objection to the eight hours day, but that it was in favour of shorter hours. He was entirely in accord with the suggestion that shops might be closed on Saturday afternoons. The reason was making something that commanded itself to everybody who desired to see the progress of the community in general. While he was in favour of the eight hours day, the department was unable to see how he could make a statutory eight hours day.

Mr. Denham added that he thought in any amendment to the Works Act this eight-hour principle might be brought in the fullest degree. He could not for the life of him understand why the eight hours day should not work out 45 or 44 hours a week. He would bind himself to no promise, but the Government would endeavour to make the Works Board Bill more effective than at present.

GIRLS IN FACTORIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir.—In your issue of Thursday, under the above heading, it is stated that "during the three years ended December 31, 1910, the number of girls under 14 years of age who obtained employment in factories and workshops amounted to a large number of these girls were absorbed by the growth of new factories." I desire to point out that this statement is not correct. The growth is strongly opposed to girls under 14 years of age engaging in factory work, and will not, except in extreme cases, exceed the number of girls under 14 years of age in work in factories.

During the present year similar permission has only been granted in one case, I am, etc. C. J. ALDREDGE.

Clerk in Charge, Department of Labour and Industry, Sept. 22.

The annual sale at St. Mark's, Granville, was opened on Saturday last, and promoters adopted the novel idea of having scenes from well-known books represented, which was both educational and picturesque. The Rev. Mr. Ross, of All Saints' Church, St. George District, third, 250 pounds; Inverell Austral, 212 pounds; Tamworth, 211 pounds; Quick-step, Inverell, 185 pounds; King's Kurultai, 180 pounds; Mr. Charles T. Russell, of Queensland, was the adjudicator. The Gynale bandmen was principally the Sydney Tramway band, and the bandmen of the band was first in the slide trombone solo; J. Watson, St. George District Band, second.
